

Today's Headlines

Wisconsin Youth Symphony moves ahead with designs for music center in Madison

"The Wisconsin Youth Symphony Orchestras is proposing a striking design of glass and curving roofs inspired by the contours of a cello for its $29 million music center on the site of the now-closed Avenue Club and Bubble Up Bar on the Near East Side," writes Dean Mosiman in Sunday's (12/5) Wisconsin State Journal (Madison, [...])

READ MORE

Nashville Symphony, marking 75 years this month

"Before the Nashville Symphony was formed in 1946, there was a predecessor orchestra that began here around 1921 [which] succumbed to the Great Depression," writes Melonee Hurt in Friday's (12/3) Nashville Tennessean. "The Nashville Symphony we know today is celebrating 75 years of continuously making, performing and recording music [despite] a record-setting flood that would [...]"

READ MORE

FREE REPORTS and RESOURCES
for building arts audiences and improving arts education for young people

Wallace

CLICK HERE

